

ATTACKS FROM THE PARADOX (JEZEBEL) SPIRIT

You no doubt have been following the little war that has been ensuing between those who weave a web of darkness and deceit and those of us who are battling for righteousness and holiness within the Christian UFO Research Community.

One has to ask oneself what to do when the rantings and ravings of a psychotic person could endanger one's ministry. Do you fight the attacks, or do you give everything to Yahweh, or do you both? Some have chosen to sit back and let things continue unabated. I chose this avenue for the past seven years, only answering in volley to correct misquotes and blatant lies. I have always prayed for those who attack me. When I know that the people are other believers, or even if they are unbelievers in Yeshua I pray for them. Believers can be brought to correction by Yahweh and unbelievers can be brought to salvation through the shed blood of Yeshua. However, there is a third subset in this mix; the reprobate who are bound and determined to destroy what Yahweh has established through His people. We're told in scripture to:

But I say unto you, Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you.. Matthew 5:44

What wonderful words and what a beautiful commandment; and it is a commandment, not a suggestion. But how do you pray for people who are reprobate? I struggled with this question for a long time until one day Yahweh told me that I should pray for His Will in their lives. I mean, if you think that someone is reprobate and they are not and you don't pray for them then you really don't love them, right? And what if they aren't reprobate, what then? Well, if you pray for Yahweh's Will in their life then you accomplish many things. If they are redeemable then they will be redeemed. If they are fallen away then they will come back and if they're truly believers who are just totally messed up then Yahweh will fix the mess. This fulfills the ultimate in love of someone whom you would rather not every care for; for those who make your life miserable; that you pray that Yahweh's ultimate will is done in their lives. He knows what that will is, we never do.

But what do we do when we are incessantly hunted down by the hounds of hell; those who for whatever reason are hell bent on ruining us? We're told by Yeshua Himself that we are to judge the fruit of people. If they are bearing good fruit then they are a good tree and if they are bearing bad fruit then they are a bad tree, right? In the case of the shepherd, or the watchman, our job also includes warning people of bad fruit. We are in essence, fruit inspectors. If we see that an apple is bad, we tell the buyer that the seller is a purveyor of bad fruit and if we see that a grove of trees is representing itself as being a grove of apple trees but the fruit on the tree is sour apples, we are to tell unwary buyers. Sure, we might anger those trying to sell the bad fruit, and we might cause the bad fruit on the tree to fall to the ground and not be consumed, but saving the lives or souls of countless people is far more honorable and righteous than angering a small group of unrighteous people.

Many of my friends have told me to just let it go; that this nightmare will go away and that my addressing the rantings of one Paradox Brown about my beliefs and those of those whom I love and care for I am just fueling the fire. They tell me that they just want an audience, that they are people with big egos who want those ego's fed and that by addressing their issues it only causes them to be recognized and to be brought fame. Their advice is sound advice if the people that have set themselves as adversaries were normal, sane and reasonable people, but this is not the case. If you have a bee hive in your tree and it is away from peoples' path then you leave it alone. Bees are beneficial creatures and they do mankind a lot of services. There are other insects that are not good to ignore. Take for one, the mosquito.

When I was a child in New Jersey back in the 1960's we would have terrible mosquito problems if it wasn't for the mosquito truck that drove through the neighborhood every day spraying a fog of DDT throughout the streets, the mosquitos would have made life miserable. This action cut the mosquito attacks to a bare minimal and enabled us to play outside at dusk without having to coat out bodies with repellent. In the late 60's some scientists (genius' you know the type) came to the conclusion that DDT was harmful to animals and therefore humans. The result of the ban on DDT in New Jersey was that mosquitos came back with a vengeance. I started to notice that reports of encephalitis were growing in the newspapers as well as other mosquito borne ailments. Well, I guess that my parents pointed it out to me; I was pretty young, but I remember it very well.

Lesson here is that when the DDT truck went through the neighborhood we thrived and life was good. This was because our society was battling a dangerous insect and took the threat serious enough to battle. Stop battling, the problem returns. My friends and family who are concerned about my addressing the Jezebel, Nicole Malone (AKA Paradox Brown) fail to recognize the danger that this woman poses to the Body of Mashiach with her false teachings; and the fact that she is teaching at all is questionable too. If you've read earlier posts in this blog you know why I see Paradox's teachings to be dangerous, simply because she uses her teachings to tear apart the brethren and also because her mental condition makes it so that she cannot make sound decisions about things, causes her to not have compassion and could also cause her to have anti-social traits. It would be akin to Hannibal Lector teaching classes on how to make friends and influence people.

You probably also know that I've asked Brown, or Malone or whatever name she's going by now, that she ceases and desist teaching and counseling people because of her disability. She had sent a letter of apology for her venomous actions in the past but never repented nor asked for forgiveness. Well, the madness continues. I'm starting to understand how Elijah felt when Jezebel was out to get him. She too wore the pants in their family as her husband was a weak king, much like PB's husband. The Jezebel of that time and the current one have much in common because they both have the same spirit. In essence, they controlled their husbands, set up false gods and doctrines and sought to kill the Prophets of Yahweh. If anyone cannot see the parallels that Paradox Brown shares with the Jezebel of old then they're not looking very hard or they are in denial.

Again, if you've read this blog at any length you know that Yahweh has given me the gift of prophetic ministry. He shows me things, tells me things and gives me dreams and I write them down for people to read. The office of prophet is one that always gets a target painted on the back of the one whom Yahweh uses, probably like no other gift, except for maybe the Apostle. Just yesterday I was alerted by a friend to a post that PB has placed on her blog, asserting that I'm a false prophet. In her post she takes some of the things that Yahweh has given to me and she uses her "genius" reasoning ability to tear them down as being false dreams, words and visions. Well, in the world we once had the saying that opinions are like people's rear ends, everyone has one and they all stink. PB's opinions are the result of someone who refuses to live in the real world and has WAY too much time on her hands. By her own admission her "genius" I.Q. number qualifies her to teach scripture and counsel people, (so much for need of the Holy Spirit, right?) but is she really coming about these determinations and teachings from her IQ or is someone else "feeding" her information.

Bear in mind that PB states in a letter that she "heard a little voice" tell her to move to Roswell to marry Guy Malone. Now, this might be all well and good if she had been single, but at the time that she "heard the voice," she was still legally married to her prior husband. Can anyone really say that this was a godly angel or the Holy Spirit who told her to marry Malone when she was still married. What about the myriad of scriptures that relate to us that "God Hates Divorce” and that “bigamy” is an offense too? By her own admission, she wants us to think that Yahweh told her to be a bigamist???. Her contention, that the prior marriage was not a “God Sanctioned” marriage so therefore it was never a marriage. She had children by this marriage, so the union occurred and the consummation was a fact, so in Yahweh’s eyes, they were married. Consummation has always been the “seal” that the marriage was/is in fact a marriage. The children are the evidence.

This PB is the same person who once wondered if what dimension she was in and what was the true reality. Again, this is the person who is questioning whether Yahweh is speaking through me? A woman who questions reality, who for a long time wondered if she had multiple personalities and who hears voices tell her to commit bigamy; yeah, that is a reliable source for ascertaining what is right and wrong.

PB mentions that the words, visions and dreams that Yahweh has given me are really the words spoken to me by a “familiar spirit,” well is she speaking from personal experience. I mean, that would be the only way that she would know for certain. After all, she claims that she relies on her “genius” intellect to discern scripture so is can’t be the Holy Spirit “informing” her regarding these matters. I’d like to end this by warning Paradox Brown, Nicole Malone or whoever the heck you are this week, that you should perhaps be careful because saying that the works of Yahweh are the works of Satan and his minions is dangerously close to blaspheming the Holy Spirit. And why Nicole, or Paradox or whoever you are, why haven’t you posted the word that Yahweh gave me for your betrothed? Why? Well perhaps because people would see how he has fallen from grace, and how you are the mighty wind that has caused him to fall. My dear Jezebel, you are the one who has led to his destruction and you continue to stoke the fires that will consume him along with yourself. You two really deserve each other, and you will both fall from that wall.
