

HAS OBAMA FINALLY GONE TOO FAR?

I know what you're thinking. Obama has been going too far for the four plus years. Yes, but if things happened the way that I think they happened, and reports are correct, then Obama has committed the ultimate act of treason. Let's look at this, shall we?

We all sat aghast at our televisions or radios as we watched or listened to the reports of the terrorist bombings in Boston earlier this week. The very same day the news reported that there was a young Saudi National that was in the hospital with severe burns from the blast. They said that he was a person of interest. The next day we heard very little about this creature (he doesn't deserve to bear the title of a man) as we learned that there were two others who were more implicated in the event. The creature almost fell into obscurity and probably would of if left to the left-wing press and their orgasmic love affair with the current administration.

Today, several different news sources reported that the creature was being deported. One or two sources said that his visa was being pulled because he was involved in a terrorist plot. It is implied that the Boston terror event was the event that the authorities are pointing at.

So, the story gets even more strange, but makes perfect sense if you sit and just think about it for a few minutes. It was reported that the night of the attacks, Obama was in a meeting with the Saudi Foreign Minister supposedly about something unrelated to the events of the day. The funny thing is that it was made quite public that this meeting was not on Obama's list of scheduled events for the day. Therefore, it had to be a last-minute meeting for something that needed to be attended to right away. If the meeting was about the subject that the news mentioned it would have been on the President's schedule. The Secret Service is quite adamant about the Commander in Chief letting them know well in advance of all of his future meetings. The subject had to be about the young creature, who it turns out is somehow related to Saudi royalty.

Bear in mind if you will and remember when Obama first traveled to the Middle East, during the first part of his first term in office. We watched in disgust as he bowed to the Saudi King then kissed the man's hand. This is the action of a subservient, not as the commander of the strongest nation on Earth. Obama showed the whole world who "he" thought was "his" leader.

So, let's tie it together, shall we. There are two bombings in Boston early this week. Soon after the authorities are focused on a person of interest who is being hospitalized for burns that he received while watching the runners. The man is from Saudi Arabia. The police go to his apartment and haul off large bags of material. Soon after he is no longer a person of interest, but is placed under house arrest in the hospital. Today, we find out that the man has had his visa pulled because the authorities are pretty sure that he was involved somehow in a terroristic event. Now, could he have gotten the burns because he didn't get away from the blast soon enough? Did he go back to check on the bomb and it blew up near him? Sure, seems that way.

So, the Saudi Foreign Minister calls Obama to an emergency meeting. Someone in Saudi Arabia wants this creature cleared of charges. Obama calls Homeland Security and says that he wants them to pull the creature's visa and deport him back to Saudi Arabia. Obama, being the Commander in Chief has to know that the creature was implicated in the attack, right? It only makes sense. His keepers in Saudi Arabia summoned him to a meeting and told him what to do.

The Constitution of The United States is clear that a President may be impeached when it is thought that he has been involved in "treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors". So, what exactly is treason? Good question. Here is what the Constitution defines treason as; in Article Three, section three it states:

Treason against the United States, shall consist only in levying War against them, or in adhering to their Enemies, giving them Aid and Comfort. No Person shall be convicted of Treason unless on the Testimony of two Witnesses to the same overt Act, or on Confession in open Court. The Congress shall have Power to declare the Punishment of Treason, but no Attainder of Treason shall work Corruption of Blood, or Forfeiture except during the Life of the Person attainted.

Therefore, we know some uncomfortable truths. Obama through bowing and kissing the Saudi King's hand spoke that Obama was subservient to the Saudi monarch. That is an act of treason in itself technically because he was surrendering the office of President and its authority to a foreign power. After Obama's meeting with the Saudi Foreign Minister last Monday night it is decided that the creature will be deported back to Saudi Arabia, the reason being that the creature was involved in some sort of terrorism. It is presumed that the Boston bombing was that act of terrorism. Obama took direction from a foreign power to send a probable terrorist out of the country. The terrorist, or supposed terrorist was an enemy combatant of a foreign power and was (or is) sworn to kill Americans. Therefore, Obama has given aid and comfort to a terrorist and sent him away so that he will not have to face trial here in the United States. His best intent is for the enemies of this country; those whose sole desire is to destroy America and all that we stand for. Therefore, Obama is a traitor and should be immediately removed from office, along with everyone else who has knowledge of this action.

I want to encourage all of you to write your Senators and Congressmen to demand that they take action on this act of treason and move to remove this traitor out of the office of President of The United States. Enough is enough and if any of you gives a damn about our nation and the nation that you will leave for your children and grandchildren, they will take action and make the phone calls and write the letters. And don't stop until you see Obama in a orange jump suite with his hands cuffed behind his back as he is led to prison.
