

POLITICS ARE WORTHLESS WITHOUT OBEDIENCE FIRST TO YHVH

I've been taking interest in this election year. What a bunch of schmendricks are running for office. The campaign slogan for each party should be, "we're no worse than anyone else." We have schmendricks that want to replace schmucks. Yahweh help us all.

People just don't get it; and again, I ask, "where is the discernment?" First of all, although you vote it still doesn't matter. If they're not crooked when they are running, they soon become crooked when they're elected to office. Imagine that you're honest and you win an election. So you sit in your office the first week or maybe a month and some person comes to meet with you. This person or persons tells you that you're going to do what they tell you to do and if you don't, they'll either ruin you, kill your family or kill you. They have the power to ruin you financially, morally and any other way that you can think of. People go into office honest, but none of them leaves honest. Honest people are killed.

There was one candidate this year that spoke a good line. Monica Wehby started out by telling people that if she is elected to the Senate, she will do everything she can to get rid of Obama Care. Wow, she got my ear right away. A few weeks later, there was an ad on television that featured two gay married men who were endorsing Monica Wehby. When I saw Monica standing there with the two gay men and approving the message, I realized that I got suckered again.

Tonight, I was reading the Drudge Report and many of the polls are predicting that the Conservatives will be taking back the Senate and they'll be picking up more Representative seats and seats on the state level. I'm sure that Republicans are happy, and conservatives in general because they see this as a way to get back some of the many things that we have lost over the past six years. What people fail to realize is that Obama has been ruling via fiat for the past six years and although the Conservatives have been in control of the House of Representatives, they have done very little to oppose Obama. When they have raised their pinkies in protest, Obama has just gone over their heads and written executive orders. The government as it once existed doesn't exist anymore and the Senate and House are just yes men and women for the Dictator Obama.

There is a saying that a cornered and injured animal is dangerous, and this is true with politics, especially when a leader is ruling by Fiat. Up until tomorrow (November 04) the dictator has had no real opposition. He has ruled over the people with supreme authority and although he has seen some malcontents, he knew that he was not in danger. He has had the backing of many special interest groups, like the Unions and the African American Community, both which have felt betrayed by the Dictator Obama. The King has no clothes and will soon realize that he has been betrayed by those whom he thought stood by him. Friends, he does not want to leave office and he will do everything that he can to stay in office past his term.

So, this wounded animal is cornered and as with what happens most times, the wounded animal will try to get back out into the open. If the Conservatives do as well in the election as I feel they will do, Obama will see this as a threat. In the next two years I can pretty well guarantee you that there will be some sort of national emergency that will cause this wounded animal to proclaim martial law throughout the land. This will cause the militias to rebel which will cause all of Obama's Islamic brothers, whom have been flooding over the border for the past six years, to enter into active Jihad here in the States. Obama will call in the U.N. troops to bring about a peace and many people will be slaughtered. If you think that this country has changed in the last six years in a drastic measure, wait for the next two to four years; you won't recognize it anymore.

It's time for people to stop putting their trust in politicians. It's time to realize that there is really only one person that can pull us from this mess. There is only one that can truly intervene. His name is Yeshua. I leave you with a promise that Yahweh made to Israel, and any nation that would be established in His name. It is our only hope:

If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land. 2 Chronicles 7:14
